

HRSA 340B Program Integrity

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) requires that the Government Accountability Office (GAO) examine and audit federal programs such as the 340B Drug Pricing Program to help maintain performance, accountability, and integrity of public dollar expenditures. On September 2011, the GAO recommended that HRSA take steps to strengthen oversight regarding 340B program participation and compliance with program requirements. Increase use and reliance of the 340B program and inadequate “self-policing” of covered entities and manufacturers to ensure compliance prompted the GAO’s recommendation to HRSA to begin audits on February 6, 2012.

The audits will evaluate the covered entities and manufacturers’ compliance as it relates to the entities’ transfer of drugs purchased at 340B prices only to eligible patients, and manufacturers’ sale of drugs to covered entities at or below the 340B price.
